

Personal Description

Waris Damkham is the CEO of PetMe company who is enjoying his work experience by developed and designing a website. He wants his companies to improve business services further for pets and owners. He graduated from the Faculty of Information and Communication Technology with a Computer Network major, Mahidol University. He is expertise at developed websites by using CSS, HTML, and JavaScript. He started to obsess with designing websites when he was in his sophomore year and also he used to be an intern in Taiwan's A.I. internship. He has experience working in the website development field for five years. He aims to develop his company to become more prosperous.